BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 19 — Amid a tri-cornered diplomatic squabble, the Argentine government was ready today to issue an official decree interning for duration of the European War Captain Hans Langsdorff of the scuttled Admiral Graf Spee and 1,039 officers and men who arrived in Buenos Aires after the ship was sent to the bottom.

The government, yielding to British demands, already has decided to intern the German ship. The decision was announced by Foreign Minister Jose Maria Cantilo as he emerged from a special cabinet meeting.

"The Germans will be interned," he declared. "The official decree will be issued later."

In addition, it was revealed that the German tanker Tacoma, to which many members of the Graf Spee's crew were transferred before the pocket battleship was blown up, will be interned by Uruguayan authorities, who yesterday arrested the tanker's captain.

Local Rules Violated

The ship will be held as a result of charges it violated local Montevideo rules by entering and leaving the Port of Montevideo during the Graf Spee episode without permission.

VFW WOULD BAR BROWDER FROM CHICAGO U. TALK

CHICAGO, Dec. 19—Chicago members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars today backed a resolution demanding that permission given to Communist Leader Earl Browder to speak at the University of Chicago be withdrawn. Browder was invited to the university by the Campus Communist Club and is scheduled to speak there next month.

The veterans, calling on all university officials to manifest "true, intelligent and courageous Americanism" by withdrawing permission for the Communist meeting, declared "there is no essential difference between Communists in the United States... and any group that might land on the shores of our country in the panoply of war, with the intent to capture the government and subjugate the people."

Admiralty Declares Attack

Heavy Casualties

LONDON, Dec. 19 — A German war plane was reported in combat with British planes north of the Shetland Islands today.

LONDON, Dec. 19 — Denying "exaggerated" German claims, the British air ministry today held fast to its contention that the Royal Air Force won a major aerial victory in its battle with German war planes yesterday off the Reich's northwestern coast.

The ministry declared that 12 German Messerschmidt planes were shot down while only seven British bombing craft failed to return to their bases.

(The Reich claimed that 34 out of 52 British planes had been shot down and that only two German planes had been destroyed, their crews escaping by parachuting to safety.)

The air ministry communique stated:

"A bomber formation of the Royal Air Force reconnoitered the Heligoland Bight area with the object of attacking enemy warships at sea. No warships were encountered but the bombers met strong enemy fighter forces.

"Fierce fighting ensued in the course of which 12 Messerschmidts were shot down while seven of our bombers are unaccounted for."

Half of Nazis Lost

A later communique said half the German pursuit squadron was lost in the battle.

"Later reports indicate that the 12 enemy aircraft destroyed in the action over Heligoland Bight represented some 50 percent of the total enemy fighter forces engaged," this announcement stated.

"With regard to reports of heavy air fighting and bombs over Sylt, it is a fact that no British aircraft were in that vicinity. The statement therefore is completely without foundation."

Guani received representatives from both the German and British governments in the case, finally imparting the Uruguayan government's stand that the Nazi pocket battleship had to depart at a certain time or be interned for the duration of the war. The ship was scuttled by its crew.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19—Ernie Haas, 23-year-old boxer, has confessed murdering Dr. Walter Engelberg, first secretary of the German consulate in New York, Assistant Chief Inspector John J. Ryan announced today after a telephone talk with Captain Frank C. Bals, who had taken Haas into custody in Toronto, Ont.

NEW YORK, Dec. 19—New

York police flew to Toronto today and seized Ernie Haas, 23-year-old boxer, for questioning in the "house of men" murder of Dr. Walter Engelberg, first secretary of the German consulate here.

All that Toronto police headquarters would reveal was that a prisoner, in whom the New York officials were interested, had been at the Belmont Street police station there since 6:30 last night. His identity became known from other sources.

While Haas was in custody technically, he was not accused of the crime and no formal arrest was made. The boxer vanished directly after the bludgeoning slaying of Dr. Engelberg, December 6 as he slept in bed at his Brooklyn home.

With terms of numerous city officials expiring the first of the new year, Mayor W. B. Cady, Tuesday, was considering his appointments to several positions. The mayor, who starts a new term January 1, said that he was not yet ready to announce any of his selections.

The mayor will name safety and service directors, a health officer, and he will be required to appoint or rename several persons serving on official boards at the present time. Karl J. Herrmann is completing his first term as safety director under the mayor, while Leonard Morgan is completing the term started by L. E. Miller, who resigned as service director in September because of failing health. Herrmann is acting as health commissioner, another post vacated by Miller.

Council To Meet

Wednesday evening's council meeting, which is expected to bring additional legislation on two bond issues, one for $4,000 to purchase a small fire truck and another for $2,000 to finance the city's share of contemplated WPA projects, will be the last for City Solicitor Carl C. Leist and Third Ward Councilman John Neuding.

Neither ran for reelection, Leist completing his third two-year term and Neuding ending his first term as a councilman. Leist will be succeeded by Joe W. Adkins, Jr., who ran through the primary and election without opposition, and George G. Groom will replace Neuding. The Third Ward position is the only one being changed in the council's lineup, John C. Goeller, J. H. Helwagen, J. Donald Mason, W. M. Reid, B. H. Gordon, Clarence Helvering and Frank A. Lynch returning to serve additional terms. The council at its organization meeting employs its own clerk, Fred R. Nicholas serving now in that post.

HOLIDAY AIRLINE TRAFFIC MOVES TO NEW RECORD

NEW YORK, Dec. 19—Airlines operating from La Guardia Field, New York, were completely swamped today by an unprecedented Christmas holiday rush which sent the companies scouring the country for extra planes and pilots.

Every available seat on planes of the four major lines has been booked in advance from Thursday to Sunday, it was announced. A total of about 200 planes a day was expected to arrive and depart daily on those four days in contrast to the normal 172, it was stated.

Only bad weather in some parts of the country which would free planes for use in the East can alleviate the situation, airlines officials said. The pilot problem is even more pressing because of the regulations specifying long rest periods for pilots between flights. One line reported a waiting list of 98 persons for passage to California.

At the same time, extension of the relief campaign to states and cities proceeded apace.

By telephone and telegraph, the former president received acceptances from persons in 14 states whom he had requested to conduct state-wide campaigns. These persons, he explained, will name local chairmen who will set up committees in their communities to cooperate with the 1,200 daily newspapers participating in the drive.

OHIO BELL PLANS IMPROVEMENT IN COMPANY IN 1940

CLEVELAND, Dec. 19—A $17,400,000 expansion and improvement program for 1940 was announced today by Randolph Elde, president of the Ohio Bell Telephone Co.

The total expended will exceed 1939 expenditures for similar purposes by more than $3,000,000 and will include $8,450,000 for station equipment, $4,040,000 for central office equipment, $3,780,000 for outside plant equipment, $705,000 for land and buildings and $425,000 for general equipment.

Elde said that the company expected a net gain of approximately 60,000 telephones in 1940, as compared to nearly 53,000 in 1939. Improvements and expansion, he said, are necessary because of "constantly increasing demands for telephone service."

The money will be distributed as follows:

Cleveland district, $6,000,000; Akron district, $1,300,000; Canton district, $750,000; Youngstown district, $1,250,000; Toledo district, $2,650,000; Dayton district, $1,990,000; Zanesville district, $1,580,000; and Columbus district, $1,900,000.

Airplanes Raid Helsinki, Viborg During Morning

Little Damage Done; Reports Heard Of Great Victory For Defenders During
Fight In North; 17,000 May Be Dead

HELSINKI, Dec. 19—In a renewal of aerial assaults against the Finnish capital, Soviet Russian planes today bombed the outskirts of Helsinki.

Eighteen Soviet planes participated in the bombing attempt, but only four of these succeeded in reaching the capital.

The first air raid alarm was sounded at 11:20 a. m. and the "all clear" signal at 12:15 p. m.

A short time later, six Soviet planes raided the city of Viborg on the Carelian Isthmus. One of the attackers was shot down by Finnish anti-aircraft fire.

As far as could be ascertained immediately, there were no casualties. The raiders approached Helsinki in scattered formations from the North and anti-aircraft fire was heard clearly in the center of the city as four planes, flying at a great height, attempted to bomb the Malm airport.

Two of the Russian airplanes were reported to have been shot down. It was feared further raids would be carried out in view of the clear weather.

Altogether 11 bombs were dropped around Helsinki, chiefly in the vicinity of Trumarkinkyla, north of Helsinki proper. No damage was reported.

Meanwhile, reports of a decisive Finnish victory on the Suomussalmi sector of the North Central Front were confirmed today by the Finnish commander-in-chief and General Kurt Wallenius, Finnish commander on that sector, received the congratulations of Field Marshal Karl Von Mannerheim.

17,000 Reported Slain

In this battle, it was reported, a Soviet division of 17,000 men was destroyed. At the same time authorities claimed that Russian attacks on the Carelian Isthmus had been hurled back with heavy losses.

Advices received in Helsinki said smallpox was raging among the Russian troops in Finland and that spread of the disease had reached epidemic proportions.

Wholesale vaccinations of Finnish soldiers were carried out to prevent them from falling victim to the dread disease.

ALLIED COUNCIL MEETS TO TALK OF THE FUTURE

PARIS, Dec. 19—The Allied Supreme Council met in the French war ministry today to discuss the conduct of hostilities to date and plans for the future.

Those present included British Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain, who returned from a visit to the Maginot Line, French Premier Edouard Daladier and Gen. Gustave Marie Gamelin, commander-in-chief of the allied forces.

Chamberlain yesterday visited French and English troops at the front. He congratulated the English troops on their appearance and then toured the Maginot Line, inspecting everything from the machinery to the uppermost gun turrets.

"Wonderful," he exclaimed. "This is the finest fighting machine in the world."

At lunch yesterday "somewhere at the front," the British prime minister tested the food of French privates.

But last night, after returning to Paris, Chamberlain dined in style with Daladier at the Quai d'Orsay. The dinner was attended by prominent French government officials and a group of English notables at present in Paris.

Daladier and Chamberlain emerged from the conference in high spirits, indicating their satisfaction at progress of the war.

HELSINKI, Dec. 19 — Arrest of an alleged "German spy" in Helsinki's most famous hotel caused a sensation in the Finnish capital today. The new spy scare was revealed with arrest of a porter in the Hotel Kemp. He was accused by authorities of engaging in espionage activities on behalf of the Reich.

ARMY MAN DIES AS PARACHUTE FAILS TO OPEN

HILL CITY, Kansas, Dec. 19—Failure of his parachute to open in time was given today as the cause of the death of Sgt. Kenneth C. Seamans of Philadelphia, who was killed when he jumped from an army bombing plane.

When the bomber's motors stalled in flight, Seamans, Lieut. John O. Neal of Nashville, Tenn., and Private Henry R. Zielinski, all jumped from the plane on the order of Lieut. Harold Neely, also of Nashville, the pilot. Lieut. Neely subsequently brought the ship to earth. He escaped injury and the plane was only slightly damaged.

Neal and Zielinski were shaken and bruised when they landed in their "chutes. Their descent was hampered by a high wind and heavy dust clouds.

Lieut. Neely said the engines stopped when he switched on a fresh gasoline tank at an altitude of about 9,000 feet. He instructed the others to jump and said he intended to follow, but as he saw only two parachutes going down he thought the third man did not get away, so he stayed with the ship, tried all reserve gasoline tanks, but was unable to get the engines started. He managed to make a safe landing, and found he was alone in the bomber.

The bomber was being flown from Lowry Field, Denver, to Chanute, Ill.

F. D. R. RETURNS TO WASHINGTON FOR VITAL TASK

President To Check Up On Fight Off Atlantic's Southern Coast

MESSAGE TO BE DRAWN

"Safety Zone" Importance To Be Considered In Conferences

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—Facing international problems, a heavy Christmas schedule and the job of drafting his message to congress for January 3, President Roosevelt headed back to the White House today after four days of rest in his Hyde Park, N. Y., home.

First of the President's schedule was a conference with Secretary of State Cordell Hull and this afternoon a special meeting of the cabinet was summoned. From Hull the President expected latest dispatches dealing with the explosion and sinking of the German pocket battleship Graf Spee in the Montevideo, Uruguay harbor by its crew.

At the cabinet meeting the executive was expected to ask the members' opinions on the advisability of protesting the naval engagement between the Graf Spee and three British cruisers before the German battle cruiser entered the harbor for repairs. This took place well within the so-called "safety zone" proclaimed at the Panama conference of Western Hemisphere republics. At that time the New World nations announced they would seek to keep this belt of water surrounding the Western Hemisphere clear of military operations by belligerents in the European war.

Ignored By Britain

Since the "safety zone" declaration Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles has announced that the United States has no intention of enforcing this with battleships. He added that Western Hemisphere nations would ask the warring countries of the Old World to recognize it. Great Britain has already announced she recognized no such zone, and would observe only the traditionally recognized three-mile limit. The Graf Spee incident, it was understood, brought forward for serious consideration the question of United States leadership in formally requesting warring nations to observe the no-fighting rule in the safety zone.

The message to congress presented a real problem for the President, and White House attaches said that as yet he has given it only general study. However, with the opening of congress only two weeks away, Mr. Roosevelt must begin work on it soon. He has already made it plain he will ask for large national defense appro-

A A A Official Talks Of Reasons for Crop Plan

The "farm plan" adopted at the beginning of the 1939 farm program again will be offered to Pickaway County farmers who expect to participate in the 1940 AAA program, it was reported today by Wilbur E. Brinker, a member of the Pickaway County AAA Committee.

"The purpose of this farm plan is to encourage farmers to adopt good soil management practices and to aid them in planning their 1940 farming operations so that they may cooperate in the farm program," he said.

Many favorable comments were made by local farmers regarding this farm plan during the 1939 sign-up.

The plan shows the approximate maximum farm payments for both the allotment and non-allotment farms and methods by which these payments may be earned. A request for inspection is also contained together with names and addresses of owners and operators of the farm.

Community committeemen will meet soon with all farmers in their communities to explain the 1940 farm program and to complete the farm plan for each farm.

In commenting on the new farm plan, the committeeman stated that the 1940 regulations are the same as those last year. The farm plan must be signed by May 1, 1940 and no farm will be inspected to determine eligibility for commodity loans and 1940 conservation and parity payments, unless a person entitled to a share in the 1940 crops on the farm completes and signs the form before this deadline date, he continued.

Whether you are "in or out" depends on whether or not you have signed the farm plan, he declared. An addition to the farm plan is an outline giving payment provisions and a guide for the classification of crops and land-use in the 1940 farm program.

Every farmer in the county will be given an opportunity to sign the farm plan. Farmers will be contacted personally by community committeemen.

Mr. Brinker urged farmers to cooperate with these committeemen in seeing that the correct information is given so that payments will not be withheld for errors. "These men are your 'hired hands' and they are only trying to see that farmers get the fullest advantage out of the 1940 program," he said.

The President's daughter, Anna, and her publisher-husband, John Boettiger, of Seattle were expected to come to Washington in the next few days for a short visit. They came to Hyde Park while the executive was there, bringing their year-old son John Roosevelt Boettiger, newest grandson of the president, and Mrs. Boettiger's two other children, "Sistie" and "Buzzie" Dall. They spent one day with the President, and were down at the train to see him off when he left.

CLEVELAND, Dec. 19—Although inclined to consider it the work of a crank or joker, Cleveland police bureau experts today studied a note "warning" Safety Director Elliot Ness to get out of town before January 1.

The note, roughly lettered with a soft pencil, was found under the door of Ness' summer cottage on the western lake front. It was decorated with a hammer and sickle and was signed "G. P. U."

Ness, in New York for a meeting of the National Safety Council, could not be reached for comment. He is living in an apartment in town, and not in the cottage, at present.

LONDON, BERLIN CLAIM VICTORY IN MAJOR FIGHT

Both Sides Quote Number Of Planes Lost By Each In Heligoland Battle

Naval quarters also were elated by the announcement that two British submarines which penetrated German naval bases sank a 6,000-ton German cruiser, severely damaged two other German warships and torpedoed a Nazi U-boat.

Hundreds of German lives were believed to have been lost as a result of these operations. One of the German ships, said to be a 10,000-ton Blucher class heavy cruiser, was reported so seriously disabled that she sank without making port.

The British coastal submarine Ursula maneuvered herself through German mines into the mouth of the Elbe River and sank a 6,000-ton cruiser of the Konigsberg. The attack took place last Thursday.

Damage Admitted
(Germany denied sinking of the cruiser but admitted a British submarine might have caused a "sub-surface detonation" which slightly damaged a German warship last Thursday.)

The second British submarine, the Salmon, it was stated, torpedoed the German cruiser Leipzig, a 6,000-ton vessel which carries a normal complement of 615 men, and fired other torpedoes, two of which "found their marks" almost certainly on a heavy cruiser of the Blucher class, according to the British admiralty.

Twenty-four hours earlier the Salmon torpedoed a German U-boat, wreckage of which was hurled 200 feet in the air when the deadly missile struck home.

Other admiralty reports revealed that German warplanes during the last 60 hours machine gunned and bombed nearly a score of merchant ships in convoys along the English coast, including an Italian vessel of nearly 5,000 tons. Twenty-six men were killed and eight wounded in these attacks, it was estimated.

TOLEDO SCHOOLS OPEN JANUARY 2 AFTER 'RECESS'

TOLEDO, Dec. 19 — Toledo's schools, closed since November 23, will reopen January 2, the board of education announced today.

Although it voted to re-open the schools, the board took no action on curtailments necessary to continue operation. The new board, with three holdover members, will be forced to decide on economies at its first meeting after January 1.

Salary cuts, which will meet strong opposition, and elimination of kindergartens were considered the most likely measures. Closing of the schools last month, with a deficit of $600,000, avoided addition of another $300,000 to the debt, board members said.

BOY WITH CURLS STARTS TO SCHOOL; 'NOT AFRAID'

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 19—Over the protests of school authorities, 15-year-old Carl Irwin Keen today entered high school in Seattle wearing long curls that would make a girl envious.

The school principal looked at the curls in amazement and was apprehensive that other boys might gang up on Carl, but the boy and his mother, Mrs. Bessie Keenen, flatly refused to have the long locks trimmed.

For the curls are Carl's stock in trade. Known as "Little Tin Horn" Hank Keenen, he's a rodeo performer and with the curls baffles crowds as to whether he's a boy or a girl.

As to the other kids ganging up on him, the wiry youngster flexed his right arm, smiled and said: "I reckon I won't worry about that. I never seem to have trouble that way."

GRAF SPEE MEN, TANK BOAT HELD

The German protest, delivered yesterday, charged that Uruguay was guilty, under British pressure, of a "flagrant violation" of international law in refusing to grant the Graf Spee sufficient time to make repairs after it entered Montevideo port, crippled by the guns of three British cruisers.

The Argentine decision to intern the Graf Spee's officers and crew represented a major British diplomatic triumph, similar to that which Britain won at Montevideo when Uruguay gave the Graf Spee only 72 hours in port instead of the 30 days requested by Germany.

Considered Defeated
It was learned that the British, in a note to the Argentine government, insisted the German officers and men must be considered as defeated combatants and therefore must be interned for duration of the conflict.

The Germans, on the other hand, insisted that the officers and men be treated as members of a "shipwrecked" crew—a classification which would entitle them to immediate release and repatriation for further service with the German navy.

Britain retorted that the Graf Spee crew could not be regarded as "shipwrecked" because they deliberately scuttled their ship.

JOSEPH MATTOX HEADS DISTRICT CENSUS OFFICE

Joseph H. Mattox, Chillicothe, was appointed Tuesday as district census supervisor for the 11th congressional district. Bruce Wilson, also of Chillicothe, was named his assistant. Headquarters for the district will be in Chillicothe.

The appointments were made by Charles Blomquist, supervisor for 24 counties in the Columbus area. Pickaway County is part of the 11th Ohio district.

AIRPLANES RAID HELSINKI, VIBORG DURING MORNING

(Continued from Page One) Isthmus, it was charged, Russian planes bombed a hospital despite the fact it was clearly marked as such. No damage was done, however, and no inmates were killed or wounded.

On the Polar Front, where the Russians were said to have completed occupation of the entire Finnish Arctic Ocean corridor, the Soviets were estimated to be attacking with at least 15,000 men plus some 200 tanks and an enormous number of trucks of all kinds.

On the North Central Front, it was reported, the Finns drew the advancing Russians into a death trap, then surrounded them and inflicted losses which totaled 17,000 Russian dead, wounded and prisoners.

South of Suomussalmi, where this battle occurred, the Finns treated westward, jamming the Russians between two small lakes. The Finns then counter-attacked from the front, rear and wings.

Latest advices reaching Helsinki estimated Russian casualties since hostilities began at 30,000 to 40,000 men. The Reds also were said to have lost some 250 tanks.

STATE HIGHWAY EMPLOYEE FIRED FOR ACTIVITIES

A removal order was filed with the Civil Service Commission Tuesday against Walter M. Hughes, Chillicothe, an instrument man in division nine of the state highway department with headquarters in Chillicothe. The removal order was filed by Robert S. Beightler, state highway director.

The order charges that Hughes distributed political literature in Chillicothe and also handed out pamphlets advocating election of a "certain congressman" at a Chillicothe shoe factory in November, 1938.

The removal order charged also that Hughes was an officer of a political club of Ross County, known as the "Young Club of Ross County."

Hughes was suspended effective December 22.

FREIGHTER GOES DOWN IN NORTH; CAUSE UNKNOWN

LONDON, Dec. 18—The British freighter City of Kobe, a vessel of 4,373 tons, was believed torpedoed in the North Sea today.

Eighteen survivors were landed at an East Coast port a short while after the vessel sank.

Initial announcements did not state definitely the cause of the sinking.

The majority of the City of Kobe's crew were East Indians. It was not known how many were missing.

Survivors revealed that two days before the vessel was sunk, German planes attacked the City of Kobe, machine-gunning the decks and dropping a number of bombs which fell into the sea.

TWO KINDS OF FIGHTERS

THE outer world is getting the measure of that Russian army. It not only gets beaten but it shows why. The troops and their leaders may have courage, but they are excitable, and they lack training and intelligence.

Last week there was a story from the front that showed up the navy. There were some Russian warships offshore, and on land there was a deserted Finnish village with one small cannon standing in a little park near shore. And there was one old man watching the warships.

In a sudden impulse of wrath, he touched a taper to the gun and it went off. That was all on shore. But instantly the warships began pouring shells into that village, and they kept it up until all their ammunition was exhausted and they had to sail away to their naval base for more.

Then a couple of days later came a story showing up the army. It told how, on the Taipale River, the Russians were mowing down a forest of big spruce and pine trees. They conducted the lumbering operation with three, six and nine-inch shells. It was a huge expenditure of ammunition. And it was doing them no good at all, because they were just creating such a tangle of fallen trees and shell holes that they couldn't get their artillery through it if they tried to advance.

Meanwhile the Finns were calmly sitting back in the woods, never firing a shot. "We don't shoot unless we have to," they said. "The Russians are just spoiling our woods with their kind of shooting." When the enemy's shells were gone, they would attack.

NATION-BUILDERS

AN unusual series of biographies will be issued by the University of Pennsylvania. They will tell the life stories of "less familiar" figures, men and women who contributed greatly to the shaping of state and nation but whose achievements never became fixed in historical headlines.

The first of these biographies will be that of John White Geary. A quick glance at the encyclopedia discloses that Geary was a frontier soldier who fought in the Mexican and Civil Wars with distinction. He was born in Pennsylvania, but wandered far in the course of his career. He was the first mayor of San Francisco. He was governor of Kansas in 1857, governor of Savannah after Sherman's march through Georgia, and governor of Pennsylvania.

No doubt students of American history and devoted Pennsylvanians will find much to interest them in biographies of such persons. Yet the average citizen will

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN,

DEFEAT OF SPEE SETTLED FEUD

WASHINGTON—The naval battle between the German pocket-battleship Admiral Graf Spee and the three British cruisers took place a long way from the U. S. A., but for American admirals it was extremely important.

For it settled the old feud inside the Navy Department between the eight-inch gun admirals and the six-inch gun admirals. That two inches in the size of a gun could rend the U. S. Navy literally asunder is hard for the average layman to understand. Yet it happened.

It happened in the days from 1922 to 1935 when the size of cruisers was limited by international treaty. One group of admirals believed that the United States should build nothing but eight-inch gun cruisers, while another group, headed by Admiral William V. Pratt, believed the Navy should have a few six-inch gun cruisers.

The row got so bad that the late Admiral Hilary Jones, who championed the eight-inch guns, came home in a huff from the London Naval Conference, and subsequently testified before a Senate committee that the American delegation to the conference had sold America short.

By this time, every admiral in the Navy was lined up on one side or the other. They belonged either to the Jones group or the Pratt group—with only two inches of a gun's diameter separating them. But these two inches seemed wider than the distance between heaven and hell.

FAST SIX-SHOOTERS

Admiral Pratt maintained that a six-inch gun cruiser could shoot faster, and was much more effective at close range, at night or in foggy weather, and that the American Navy should have some of them. For holding this view, some of his fellow admirals would hardly speak to him, members of the Senate Foreign Affairs Committee berated him, and the last days of his active career were most uncomfortable.

But in last week's naval battle fought off the coast of South America, it was the two British six-inch gun cruisers, Ajax and Achilles, which chased the Admiral Graf Spee into Montevideo. The British cruiser Exeter, carrying eight-inch guns, was put out of commission.

The advantage which the six-inch gun cruisers had was that they could fire faster. Their shells were smaller and the guns were loaded by hand. On the other hand, the eight-inch shells of the Exeter and the eleven-inch shells of the Admiral Spee were so big they had to be loaded by crane.

Also the six-inch gun cruisers were able to maneuver rapidly behind smoke screens and get close to the Admiral Graf Spee, thus canceling out its superiority in range.

not be greatly influenced by them. Every citizen, however humble, contributes something to the development of the nation, and there are millions whose quiet achievements are valuable although they do not get into encyclopedias or biographies.

War romance isn't dead yet, on sea or in the air—or on land, if it's Finland.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . . Hour by Hour

PAGES from the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter:

Up to find a morning so Springlike that its advent in December was almost impossible to believe. Just a few more days like this and I will join the chorus of old-timers in shouting that "Winters now ain't like they used to be." One has a perfect right to expect a little ice and snow around Christmas time. Saw store doors standing wide open, men without topcoats, fishermen wending their way to nearby streams and heard about a catch of a score of fine bluegills out of the canal.

Listened to complaints from several sources about newspapers being pilfered from porches. Wonder what you would do in a situation such as this one? An old lady who has a mania for taking newspapers from subscribers' porches. Means no harm by her action; just is unable to resist the impulses. A fine person she is, but late most evenings is considerable of a nuisance. She has been warned and even urged to call at the office and take papers from the counters, but there apparently is no thrill in that action. And every evening irate subscribers rate either the carrier boy or the office for "misses." I wonder whether there is a solution for such a problem? I doubt it.

Rode along Route 56 and almost drove off the road when directly ahead with eyes staring straight into mine was a goat head. Yes, a goat head. No other part of the goat. I had no idea one of those things could be so gruesome. Wonder where it came from? Jim Swearingen dropped into the office, bringing with him a Union Herald dated December 14, 1889. Of the merchants and professional men advertising in the publication only two are alive today, Dr. Ed Lilly and George Grand Girard.

Frank Palm brought over a fine mess of smoked sausage and another of the fresh variety. Now, George Goodchild, already designated as the king of sausage makers, must move over on his bench of honor and make room for Frank. I don't know how it would be possible to beat either one of them. Frank is preparing his at his new commercial sausage making plant. Along came a hoiday ham from the Groce plant and there is a toothsome dish. No wonder it is known as America's best.

Keep recalling a Sunday visit into the hills and a brief stop at a home there. One room, probably ten by twelve, and in it live a man, wife and four children. They eke out a living selling roots and herbs, but not the kind most of us would care for. I can't imagine how it would be possible for a family to be in much worse circumstances. Yet there must be, for one of the children, a little fellow of about nine, came from the house bearing a card distributed to collectors for a charitable organization. "Mister," he said, "would you put a dime in this card for the poor children?" I asked him if he were the poor child in which he was chiefly interested and whether he would keep the dime himself. "No," he declared. "You don't think I would steal from the poor kids, do you?" I didn't think he would, so I placed all the dimes I had in his card. And sometimes we bewail our station. Well, I always have thought civilization is made up of the craziest people.

DIET AND HEALTH

Wishing You Good Diet and Health

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

I WISH you good diet and good health on this merry Christmas day. You may think of your humble health scribe as being down in Mexico City today, unless my plans are changed after this is written. Mexico is an appropriate place to be, dietetically speaking, on Christmas, because it was in Mexico that the first turkey was ever seen. The Spaniards who explored Mexico thought they were in Asia, you must remember, and this strange bird was called the "turkey" because that country was supposed to be its native habitat. The French name for turkey is "dandi," a corruption of its full original title, "poulet d'Inde."

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

The plum pudding, which I hope all of my readers will enjoy, has a long and romantic history. Yule dough was made of chopped meat paste, spices to symbolize the gifts of the Wise Men of the East, and flour, embodying the spirit of everlasting life immanent in the wheat.

Its Forerunner

The forerunner of the modern plum pudding was frumentum or furmity (from frumentum, grain). It was a kind of porridge made of hulled wheat, boiled in milk and seasoned with cinnamon and sugar. The cooks of the more opulent families began to add plums, currants and meat broth, and its name gradually changed to plum porridge. It was served as a thick soup and was the first food eaten on Christmas day.

Queen Anne, who was gouty and also a gourmand, found she could not stomach so much rich food, so she had her plum porridge made solid so she could eat a little at a time. Boiled in a cloth or pudding bag, it was a kindly dish. Mother Goose, most of which refers to personages in Queen Anne's time, had a verse:

"The Queen did make
And stuffed it well with plums
And in it put great lumps of fat
As big as my two thumbs."

Plum pudding in its present form, however, did not appear in cook books until about 1875. It was directed that it be made a long time ahead. The last Sunday in November is known among English housewives as "Stir Up" Sunday. The collect appointed for the day begins "Stir up, we beseech Thee, the wills of Thy faithful people." This was a reminder to the good cooks in the congregation that they should begin stirring up their Christmas plum puddings.

Every person in the household, according to old custom, stirred the pudding before it was boiled—"for luck." The mistress of the household is supposed to add the spices with her own fair hand. The pudding should be boiled "six hours upon the day of stirring and six hours upon the day of eating."

CHAPTER TWENTY-EIGHT

THEY WENT to a night club. To the Flamingo which was the gayest in town. Gertrude sat between Nicky, who was strangely silent, strangely smiling as his eyes met the dark eyes of the demure, quiet girl sitting opposite next to Bill, and Fabienne, who looked frail and worn.

Gertrude's pose was being the Brave Mother that evening. A song brought sentimental tears to her eyes and, catching Bill's glance across the table, she said, "You'll have to forgive me. I've lost my big boy. The twins are only thirteen, you know." Then she flashed a glance at Nicky and another at Fabienne, a meaningful glance. "But perhaps some day I shall have Nicky for my son. He's always been like one to me."

Fabienne said, "Mother, please!"

"But I have," Nicky said. "I've even borrowed money from Gertrude."

Fabienne said, "I think I'll go if no one minds. I'm still a little weak from the flu."

Both Bill and Nicky got up. "You can use my car, darling," her mother said. "And send it back. I've telephoned for some people to join us here or I'd go with you."

"Don't bother, mother," Fabienne told her, with a sarcastic, knowing glance. "It really isn't necessary for anyone to come with me. Stay here and have a good time."

Ellen had got up, then. "I think I'll leave, too, Fabienne. I'm a working girl, you know. Is there room for me?"

"Well, if you must—" Gertrude's voice trailed off. She'd seen someone she knew across the room and was waving gaily, her child's departure forgotten.

"We'll take you and Bill home first," Fabienne said, giving the chauffeur directions to go to the apartment on Twelfth street.

"Mind if I ride back to the house with you two?" Bill asked, getting back into the car after saying goodnight to Ellen.

"Not a bit," Fabienne told him. They rode in silence for some little time. The silence was too heavy for Fabienne's frayed nerves.

"Penny for the you-know-whats, Nicky."

"I was thinking about Ellen. Nice girl."

"Wonderful," Fabienne said. "I told you she was."

"You gave me a slightly different pleasure."

"You have to know Ellen to know what a swell person she is," Bill said.

Fabienne was pretty fond of Ellen, but she was in no mood to listen to the pearls of praise that went from Nicky to Bill and back again like a soft ball.

At her own door she said shortly, "It's too late to ask you up. Goodnight, me lads."

"You sleep until noon, young lady," Bill ordered.

Nicky said, "I'll give you a ring tomorrow."

"Not too early, Nicky. I'm going to take the doctor's advice. I'd like to sleep for the rest of my life," she said, her mouth trembling.

And so she would—to sleep and forget.

A little before noon, Gertrude came into her bedroom, her negligee trailing, jeweled cigarette case in hand, and settled herself in the pillows of Fabienne's chaise longue. The signs indicated a long talk.

Fabienne sighed and sat up. "It was nice, wasn't it?" her mother said brightly. "Brenda is such a lovely girl. I'm lucky to be getting a daughter like that."

"Instead of the one you have?" "Really, Fabienne, you have the

"He's a very nice young man," her mother said calmly.

"You've met lots of nice young men." Fabienne drank from her coffee cup, looking at her mother over its edge.

Monday Club

Mrs. Ray W. Davis, president, opened the regular session of Monday Club, Monday in the club room, with a reading, "A Christmas Prayer for American Women." The program, presented by the music division, was based on church music. Miss Jeanette Rowe read a paper entitled "Liturgical Music-Trend from Gregorian Chant to Modern" in which was interestingly explained the development of the principal forms of church music down to the present day.

In the late sixth century Pope Gregory the Great organized the progress in music made up to that time and gave to the art eight scales with characteristic tonal arrangement which are known as the "Gregorian Modes."

Miss Rowe said that the "chant" as used at that time was sung in unison only, with no rhythm and without accompaniment. The effect was quiet and awe-inspiring, the music always subordinated lest it distract from the spiritual purpose. These chants were handed on without error by memory alone from one generation to another of special orders of monks, as there was no method of notation.

After several centuries, Guido Arentino gave music the staff with lines, spaces and notes much like those of today. Cantors were sent from Rome into the great monasteries, singing and teaching the Roman chants.

After several centuries, Guido Arentino gave music the staff with lines, spaces and notes much like those of today. Cantors were

Later a Flemish monk, started the use of a simple form of two-part singing. This continued, Miss Rowe mentioned, to be developed and elaborated by the Netherlands School until time values were recognized and several voices were singing in a relation to one another known as "counterpoint." The organ was now being used as accompaniment.

By the sixteenth century the Early Italian School superseded the influence of the Flemish. Palestrina was the first great musician of this school. There is the legend that it was the beauty and spirituality of his "Mass of Pope Marcellus" which influenced the cardinals from returning to the plain chant because of the frivolity that had crept into church music.

About 1558 Neri gave religious discourses intermingled with music in the small oratory or chapel. This was the humble beginning of our great "oratorios." From this time on to the present, have been written the great masses and oratorios with which we are familiar.

The music of the church service was in Latin, and sung by trained choirs, but numerous religious folk-songs developed and were sung by the people. Johann Walther and Martin Luther were co-founders of the evangelical church hymn. In England, Miles Coverdale, the translator of the Bible into the vernacular, arranged psalms in metrical form, which were the beginning of English psalmody. We sing today the hymns written by John Wesley, Isaac Watts and their associates.

Miss Rowe said that early American church music was Puritan, not Pilgrim. The Bay Psalm Book appeared in 1640. Through the nineteenth century we have Thomas Hastings, Lowell Mason and L. O. Emerson, whose church music is not confirmed to America alone.

Our Christmas carols have developed through the centuries along with the great ritual forms and the hymns of the laity. The origin of "O Come All Ye Faithful" is lost in antiquity, but is probably an old Latin song. The "First Noel" was a medieval shepherd's song of England or France. Our best loved carol, "Silent Night," was composed in a little Bavarian town by the organist, Franz Gruber, in the early nineteenth century. His organ broke down the day before Christmas, and it was necessary to have some simple, easily learned carol for the choir. Joseph Mohr, assistant priest, wrote the words and Gruber composed the music Christmas Eve. It was sung the next morning, its beauty was recognized and spread by carollers through all the civilized world.

At the close of Miss Rowe's interesting paper, the various forms of music were ably illustrated by Mrs. James P. Moffitt. Miss Eleanor Snyder and the chorus.

Mrs. Moffitt and Miss Snyder sang the words of the Lord's Prayer to an old Gregorian Chant. The chorus sang two numbers of Palestrina, "O Bone Jesu" and a motet "Sub Tuum." Mrs. Moffitt sang "He Shall Feed His Flock" from "The Messiah" of Handel. She followed it with Martin Luther's cradle hymn, "Away in a Manger" and a traditional carol handed down among the South Carolina mountain folk called "I Wonder as I Wander."

Four carols were sung by the chorus, and at the close, the entire club enjoyed singing additional Christmas hymns, using attractive carol books presented by Claude D. Kraft.

Miss Abbe Mills Clarke was accompanist for the program.

32 Sorosis Members At Yule Event

Thirty-two members attended the December session of the Sorosis Club of Williamsport, Monday, the annual Christmas party being enjoyed during the social hour. Mrs. Charles Schleich of near Williamsport was hostess and included six guests, Mrs. Thomas McKinley, Darbyville, Miss Joan McDill, Frankfort, Miss Normagne Schleich, Mrs. Mary Steeley, Mary Alice and Helen Schleich, Williamsport, for the evening.

A large Christmas tree centered the decorations of yuletide greens.

Mrs. Howard Nessell, president, presided during the business hour. A letter was read from the Rev. Frank G. Strickland inviting the club to attend the Sunday evening services in the Christian Church.

Miss Carolyn Bochar, secretary, and Mrs. Ansel Dreisbach, treasurer, read their reports.

It was decided to donate $2.50 for the treat for the children of Williamsport which will be part of the community Christmas celebration Saturday night around the tree.

Mrs. Kenneth List, program leader, had arranged a delightful Christmas program which opened with group singing of "O Little Town of Bethlehem" and "Jingle Bells". Mrs. List then interested the club members with two papers, "Is there a Santa Claus?" and "Christmas Around the World". A reading "The Gift of the Magi" was presented by Miss Dorothy Jackson. Miss Margaret Smith sang two solos, "Angels We Have Heard on High" and "Cantique De Noel", accompanied at the piano by Miss Jackson. The poem, "Silent Night", was recited by Miss Helen West. The closing carol sung by the group was "Silent Night".

During the social hour, the hostess and her assistants served an appropriate buffet lunch. Mrs. Dreisbach and Mrs. Harry Smith poured. The table was beautiful in its Christmas decorations, softly lighted with red candles.

Mrs. Edna Newhouse will entertain the club Monday, January 15.

WATERLOO WINS 52 TO 45 EDGE

Wonders Put on Great Show In Taking C. A. C.; Sohio Team Tops Caskey's

The Waterloo Wonders, who came out of the Lawrence County hills a few years back to knock off two state basketball crowns, sent a large crowd of spectators home well pleased Monday evening with their performance against the Circleville Athletic Club team, picked from various City League outfits. The score was 52-45 in favor of the Wonders, but no one cared about the scores. The Waterloo boys put on a great show of passing, shooting, guarding and clowning.

The Wonder ran up an 8-2 score in the first couple of minutes of play before they started to put on their show. All members of the six-man squad carried by the traveling club participated in the festivities.

The halftime score was 18-18. Creighton Anderson, C. A. C. forward, was top scorer for the evening with 11 buckets and two free tosses for 24 points. Beryl Drummond, No. 3 for the Wonders, topped his team with 19 points. Wyman and Orlyn Roberts, No. 7 and No. 5 respectively, getting 10 each.

In a preliminary the Bob's Sohio team of Columbus, paced by former all-Ohioan, Baker, from Fremont, won handily from the Caskey Cleaners, the final score being 49-28.

SEABISCUIT MUST CARRY 130 POUNDS AT ANITA

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 19—Seabiscuit, the great C. S. Howard horse, will carry 130 pounds when he goes to the post in the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap March 2. Kayak II, his running mate, 129, and Challedon, 128, it was announced today by Los Angeles Turf Club.

Seabiscuit's top assignment is not too much for him, but it was a question of whether the old warhorse's legs would stand up after his long lay off and injury sustained about a year ago.

After finishing with the "big three," Handicapper Webb Everett dropped down six pounds to list Cravat at 122. Like Challedon, Cravat is still in the East.

Dauber, injured more seriously than Seabiscuit, and idle for a longer time, was assigned 120.

PRINCESS FACES SUIT BY WRESTLER GREGORY

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 19 — Bob Gregory, the English wrestler, will sue his wife, the exotic Baba, daughter of the "White Rajah of Srawak," for divorce, his attorney, Lucien A. Sauvage, said today. Gregory will file the suit "some time before Christmas," and will charge desertion, the attorney said.

BUCKEYES GO SOUTH

COLUMBUS, Dec. 19 — The swimming team of Ohio State University was enroute to Fort Lauderdale, Fla., today to exhibit its wares in the national aquatic forum opening there Dec. 25. # Grove, Lyons And Feller Top Hurlers In League

By Lawton Carver

NEW YORK, Dec. 19—Lefty Mose Grove, of the Boston Red Sox, and Ted Lyons, of the Chicago White Sox, two of baseball's most aged regulars on the pitching mound, were the best in the American League last season from a standpoint of earned run averages, according to official statistics released today.

About This And That In Many Sports

Circleville High cagers, practicing for their Thursday evening game with Troy's tall barnstorming team, may be bedecked in new uniforms for the contest. . . . Outfits ordered the week before the season opened have been shipped, school authorities have been informed. . . . Officials for the Thursday evening game will be Chick Pearce and Joel Burghalter, rated as two of the best. . . . The preliminary will pit the Tiger reserves against the Walnut Township varsity, and the game should be a good one. . . . Keep your glimmers on six-foot-two-inch Jim Carr, who has taken over the center post on the Red and Black reserve outfit. . . . The kid's going to be tough in his next two years of competition. . . . The week's big game in the county will be played Friday at Ashville when Pickaway's league-leading Pirates visit the Harrison Township court. . . . If you want a seat be there plenty early. . . . Ashville was beaten last Friday at New Holland, 36-22, (thanks Harold), and is drilling hard this week in an effort to upset the Pickaway applecart. . . . It's the dickens if you don't and the dickens if you do. . . . Ye Janitor had a few unpleasant words to scribble about the officiating at Lancaster and was flayed, scored and assailed by Lancaster and Chillicothe sources. . . . Since the Chillicothe game, in which the account didn't even mention the officiating except to use the names of arbiters, several persons have said: "Why didn't you say something about the lousy officiating?" . . . There you are, just what is the typewriter expected to say. . . . Coach Roy Black had a reunion with one of his former grid captains Monday evening at the C. A. C., when Herman Huston, a member of the Bob Sohios called him on the phone and later met him at the game. . . . Huston played center and captained the last football team Roy mentored at Urbana. . . .

WHEAT REACHES $1.06 ON CIRCLEVILLE MART, HIGHEST PRICE SINCE 1935

COUNTIANS GAIN NICE PROFIT ON FEDERAL LOANS

Stored Crop Being Sold At Market Price And U. S. Is Being Paid Off

THREE CAUSES STUDIED

Corn Offers Move Higher; Soybeans Bring $1.13 Locally

With wheat listed at $1.06, Tuesday, Pickaway County farmers who obtained federal loans on their crops at 73 cents a bushel are selling at a nice profit.

Paul Matthes, secretary of the Pickaway County Agricultural Conservation Committee, announced that there are 283 persons in Pickaway County who obtained loans on their wheat. Loans were obtained on 123,227 bushels, he said.

Mr. Matthes estimated that the storage charges and interest on the loans on the wheat would make it approximately 80 cents a bushel to date. On this basis the price Tuesday was 26 cents above the loan value. He said reports indicated that some farmers were still holding their wheat for higher prices.

The present price on wheat is the highest reported since the latter part of 1935. Grain men attributed the price boost to three causes, drought in west, reports of a poor yield and poor quality wheat in Argentina and speculation on the market. The price boost is reported not to be caused by the demand of millers.

New yellow corn was 53 cents on Circleville markets Tuesday. White corn was 58. Soybeans were quoted at $1.13.

38 BOYS GUESTS AT KIWANIS CLUB HOLIDAY PARTY

Thirty-eight Circleville youngsters from families on relief were treated Monday evening at the annual Christmas party of the Kiwanis Club. The event was conducted in the New American Hotel Coffee Shop, a chicken dinner being served for the youngsters. E. W. Stebleton and his committee comprised of Joe Adkins, D. H. Marcy, L. V. Hulse, Herschel Hill and Dan McClain planned the entertainment.

Each boy attending was given a shirt, socks, gloves, pound of candy and an orange. Santa Claus in the person of Ralph Friley distributed the gifts in front of a Christmas tree.

After the program the boys were guests of the Grand Theatre management at the picture "Dress Parade" featuring the Dead End Kids.

Next week's meeting will be on Tuesday evening. It will be devoted to a report by Virgil Cress, retiring president, on the year's work, and a forum among members, discussion of club improvements to be included.

ROTARY HAS YULE PARTY

Rotarians will enjoy their annual Christmas party Thursday noon. Each member is to take a toy. Following the party all toys will be sent to the fire department for presents for the city's needy youngsters.

Three Major Problems In Muskingum Hearing

COLUMBUS, Dec. 19 — Three major problems today confronted state officials and legislative leaders as they sought a way to relieve taxpayers in 18 Central Ohio counties of the crushing burden of assessments for the gigantic Muskingum Conservancy District Flood Control Project. They were:

1—Whether officials of the district hold the power under Ohio law to transfer the project to the War department as desired by the federal government.

2—Whether the federal government would take over all present financial obligations of the district, including a bond issue of $4,000,000.

3—Whether Ohioans would be permitted to use the 10 fair-sized artificial lakes created by dams in the watershed for fishing, swimming and boating, according to the original plan.

To settle the first problem, Attorney General Thomas J. Herbert has called a meeting of all interested parties before issuing

FINAL PAYMENTS UNDER 1939 AAA PLAN AWAITED

Whether final payments under the 1939 farm program will be made to hundreds of Pickaway County farmers before Christmas remained a puzzle Tuesday to the Pickaway County Agricultural Conservation Committee.

Paul Matthes, secretary of the county committee, explained that about 1,100 applications for final payments under the program have been sent to the state headquarters since December 4 in the hope the payments would be received before Christmas. Between 400 and 500 more applications were to be sent to the state headquarters Tuesday. There will be a total of about 1,800 applications for the year or approximately 200 still to be completed.

To date Pickaway County farmers have received $184,484 from the government in payments under the 1939 farm program. Payments are expected to total approximately $550,000 this year as compared with $193,000 last year.

The boost in the amount to be received this year as compared with last year is due to an increase of about 50 percent in participation in the farm program and slightly higher payments, Mr. Matthes said.
